With the Italian Armies near Makale, Nov. 7. — The Italian northern armies are advancing rapidly towards Makale and expect to occupy this city tomorrow. The Fascists have observed, however, that the Ethiopian troops are attempting to filter gradually back to occupied territory and fear a flank attack from these scattered bands. The Ethiopian machine gunners have been active and have managed to drive back a force of Italian Natives in one instance.

Berlin, November 7. — The German Government today denied reports that she would aid in the imposition of sanctions. She declared, however, that she will not subsidize the League's plan. She has barred the export of arms and raw materials to the combatant nations. The government is acting thus because Italy has declared that she will enter into no sports relations with countries enforcing the sanctions.

Washington, November 7. — Prime Minister Mackenzie King refused to comment on Canada and United States trade relationships. He believes that no good purpose could be served by public comment by him now. It is believed that a narrow treaty will be drawn up temporarily which will include lumber, fish, cattle, and minerals.

Moscow, November 7. — The Russian Government celebrated the eighteenth anniversary of the revolution today by a formidable display of its armed forces. Moscow announced an improvement in trade relations and claimed that her foreign indebtedness had been reduced. A. Rosenzoltz, Commissioner for Foreign Affairs, estimated (Continued on Page 2)

"Bourgeois House"
Described In Talk

Relief Williams Reads Paper to R.V.C. Historical Club

FOUNDED BY NUN

"Bourgeois House" was the subject of a paper presented by Relief Williams to the Historical Club of Royal Victoria College last night.

The oldest house in the city, Bourgeois House has been constantly occupied by nuns since its erection in 1895.

Marguerite Bourgeois, the founder came to New France in 1642 when Ville Marie, as Montreal was then called, was only eleven years old. Even at this early period there were three religious institutions in the town, a nunnery, a priests' home and a hospital.

Mrs. Williams then stated that the whole situation was rather reminiscent of "Through the Looking Glass," everything went backwards. The colonists were well provided for, but there were almost no colonists.

At the age of thirty-three Mere Bourgeois came from France, her heart filled with the hope to sacrificing her life to God. She intended to start a school for the children. But there was only one child in the settlement.

When the population had increased a little, Maisonneuve gave the enterprising nun a stone stable for her school. Later when she had more pupils, she established a boarding school for girls, charging no fee.

The present building was erected in 1862 after a fire had destroyed the original. There household arts were taught. There, too, the "Filles du Roi" who were sent out to become settlers, were sheltered until their marriage.

Today there are eight thirty nuns living at the convent. These sisters run a farm, can and preserve for the Mother House, and supply it with milk and eggs in the summer.

Newfoundlanders
Assemble Today

THE NEWFOUNDLAND CLUB will hold its first meeting of the season, in Strathcona Hall tonight at eight o'clock. The speaker of the evening will be R. A. Squires B.C.L., formerly from Newfoundland, now a lawyer of this city. Mr. Squires is a son of Sir Richard Squires, former Prime Minister of Newfoundland. He will speak on "Present Day Conditions in Newfoundland." The meeting is open to all McGill Newfoundland students. A short business meeting will be held prior to the address, and the meeting will be concluded with refreshments and the singing of folk songs.

Students Support Sanctions Sweepingly

Commerce Noble Profession
Declares Principal Morgan

WHAT those engaged in industrial and commercial activity perform an important service to the community and are as nobly occupied as the members of other professions," was the keynote of an address delivered to the Commerce Society luncheon yesterday noon by Principal Morgan. The principal stated that he especially welcomed the opportunity to meet students on informal occasions such as this luncheon offered.

Mr. Morgan then referred to the unfortunate and lamentable distinction which seems to prevail between industrial and financial occupations and the other professions. It is true, stated the speaker, that members of other professions, such as the medical, often perform services and unselfish work without thought of reward. But that sense of service and responsibility exists no less in commercial callings, in spite of its essential financial basis.

Evolution Described

It was pointed out that the evolution of man's mode of living from primitive shelter to the more luxuriant life of today was produced by industry and distributed by commerce. They occupy an honorable position in an honorable profession who perform this function for the community.

The second part of the principal's address was devoted to a description of the enormous change which has come over the professions in recent years. The apprenticeship system where the inexperienced learner gained his knowledge by working with the expert craftsman has gradually disappeared. Crude trade schools have been supplanted by great training schools for the various professions.

It is being gradually realized that a knowledge of commerce, cannot be picked up by the old method of practice by trial and error. Some theoretical principles are necessary to their successful career in the present-day. The School of Commerce has as its primary end not the turning out of business men but equipping students with qualifications to learn business quickly. The university supplies that width of view necessary for success in modern business life, in addition to judgment and discrimination.

Principal Morgan wished the commerce students personal success and happiness and felt confident that they would perform service to the community. John Kennedy thanked the speaker on behalf of the commerce students. The principal then announced that a medal is to be given by Sir Edward Beatty, G.B.E., to the student of the School of Commerce who aggregates the highest marks in three full-year courses in Economics, i.e. 21, 22, 27. Fred Wigle moved that a vote of thanks be sent to the chancellor.

Professor Leacock expressed gratification to Sir Edward for his kindness and interest in the School of Commerce and said that the school, at first opposed, was not only interested in the "mere calculus of the market place," but its graduates now occupy numerous places in the world.

Eternal Fame To
Krazy Kartoonsists

THE PIT, coming to the aid of sleepy students, has organized what it calls a "Krazy Kartoons Kontest." Offering prizes for the three best cartoons submitted, of professors, students, or whatever suits the artist's fancy, the Pit suggests drawing cartoons as a possible alternative for going to sleep during lectures. Drawings are to be handed in over the counter at the Pit. Winning cartoons, to be judged by popular vote, will be painted on the Pit wall, for the benefit of posterity, with the artist's name, year, and the date. A more practical reward for the winning artists will consist of 100 cigarettes for each of the three. A further appeal of the Pit is towards the Epicurean instincts of college students. A menu suggestion box has been placed in the Pit. Patrons may place therein their ideas in the way of novelty menus, also any criticisms they may have concerning the food and service at the Pit. The Pit's new slogan is: "Choose your own favourite dish and throw away your bicarb. of soda."

90% of Votes Cast Favour Enforcement of Economic Sanctions and 65% Uphold Military Sanctions — 442 Students Answered War Questionnaire in Yesterday's Daily — Would Abolish C.O.T.C.

OVER ninety per cent of the students who answered the War Questionnaire in yesterday's Daily favour the application of economic and financial sanctions by the League of Nations. The results of the poll which was answered by four hundred and forty-two students revealed a large majority opposed to increased armaments for Canada, England or the United States. Two hundred and fifty-three students favour military sanctions, while sixty-five per cent of those who voted declare that they would not support Great Britain in the use of armed force except in the execution of military sanctions. The abolition of C.O.T.C. was favoured by two hundred and forty-three voters.

Poll Is Representative

As in the Questionnaire conducted by the Daily last year, the polling was heaviest in the Arts Building, while the total amount of voters was approximately equal to that of last year. In commenting on the results of the poll, members of the executive of the Peace Conference stated that they felt the poll was representative of the opinions of McGill students.

Charities Report Inserted

As usual, the Questionnaire was the occasion for pithy comments, and sarcastic statements bristling with exclamation points and question marks. One student with a sardonic sense of humour inserted a clipped report of the Charities returns. The question on the C.O.T.C. provoked the most comment. One ardent pacifist replied: "No to this question and quoted a popular ditty: 'No, no, a thousand times no. I'd rather die than say yes! A supporter of the C.O.T.C. replied by writing on the little ballot a seventy-five word essay on the relative merits of the organization.

One voter did not consider the questions adequate and inserted his own questions on Fascism, Democracy and Socialism. Another wrote in a large scrawl: "War is Hell, only morons fight."

The general results of the questionnaire are not dissimilar from those in other Canadian universities. Recently as a result of the delicate international situation polls of this type have been conducted among various groups of students.

Application forms may be obtained from the Convener of the Scholarship Committee. They are to be returned, accompanied by all documents, papers, testimonials, etc., not later than February 1st. All communications with regard to the scholarship are to be addressed to the Convener of the Scholarship Committee—Miss Margaret M. Cameron, University of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon, Sask.

Privateers To Play
At Union Informal

SEASON'S OPENER
The newly redecorated ballroom of the McGill Union will feel for the first time in its reconditioned state the tread of upperclassmen's dancing feet tonight, when the first Union House Informal of the year will take place.

As the result of considerable workmanlike redecoration, the ballroom will present a stranger and softer aspect amidst the delightful shadowy dimness of the new lighting system.

Howard Simpson and His Privateers will furnish the music. This organization, composed mainly of the McGill students, has been improving steadily in the last two or three years, and has revealed its worth at the popular tea-dances which followed the three intercollegiate football games.

The price of tickets has been determined by the Union House Committee. It will be one dollar a couple. Supper may be obtainable at a price of thirty-five cents a couple. It will be served midway through the evening. The affair will commence at half-past eight.

Union House Informals made a great hit on their introduction last year. They are generally held about once a month during the course of the college year. Attendance is limited to about 150 couples, which is a satisfactory number for the Ballroom's spacious floor. Tickets may be obtained at the Tuck Shop and from Bill Gentleman.

Delegates Will Hear Notable
Speakers In Union

A MAMMOTH peace conference, first important peace movement in McGill's history, will convene this weekend. Principal A. E. Morgan will open the conference before an assembly of students and professors from Quebec's leading colleges and high schools gathered together in the ballroom of the McGill Union. The peace conference will hold three sessions: the first tomorrow afternoon at 2:15, and the others tomorrow evening and Sunday afternoon. After addresses by speakers prominent in college and civic circles, the meeting will break up into discussion groups, a consensus of whose findings will be dealt with at the final session.

Registration will begin at 1:45 on Saturday. The Executive Committee has made a strong appeal that a large number of students be present at the opening of the conference. Individual students who feel they cannot be present at the entire conference are urged to attend at least one session.

Organization Rapid

Since the first announcement of the Peace Conference was published in the Daily barely a week ago, plans and organization have gone ahead rapidly. Copies of the call have been sent to all campus organizations, to members of the staff, to leaders of societies in all universities in the Province of Quebec, and to principals of several High Schools in this city.

Nine speakers will be featured at this conference. Carl Goldenberg, McGill graduate and prominent Montreal lawyer, will talk on the League of Nations. He will outline the formation and activity of the League, describing how it can be used in the present crisis as an instrument of peace. He will discuss its constitution, and the question of reform.

Clerical Point of View

The Rev. Labell Smith, local clergyman, will have as his subject, "The Church and Peace." He will treat of the attitude of religious bodies towards war, presenting the consensus of opinion among contemporary leaders of religion. Dr. J. Stanley Allen will address the conference on the topic of "War Propaganda," showing how the all-powerful press and radio can influence the general public.

A further point of view will be that of J. Cappelletti, who is associated with trade unions. Mr. Cappelletti will deal with the strategic position of trade unions in labour and industry, and the importance of concerted mass action in the event of war. Leaders of the Conference feel that Mr. Cappelletti's talk will be of particular interest to students, dealing as it does with a practical weapon which might be used against war.

Three McGill students will follow Mr. Cappelletti in the evening session. Mendel Laver was a delegate at the student peace conference in Brussels last December. There he was elected a member of the student world committee against war. He, Neil Morrison and Juanita De Schields will speak for McGill.

There will be present speakers from the University of Montreal and from Toronto. The latter will represent the student peace movement in Ontario, an organization which swept that province last year, uniting the important universities in a concerted drive against war. The object of this McGill conference is to form a similar peace movement in Quebec.

McCowan Speaks
At Forum Sunday

A MEETING of the People's Forum will be held on Sunday evening, November 10, when the audience will hear Mr. Dan McCowan.

Mr. McCowan has won considerable fame as a naturalist in the Rockies. He spends a large part of his time at Banff but he also lectures at many of the more prominent cities in Canada and the United States. Dan McCowan and Byron Harmon are perhaps two of the best known photographers in the Rockies.

The subject of Mr. McCowan's address will be "A Naturalist in the Rockies." The lecture will be illustrated with slides.

New Club Explores
Geological District

The newest club on the campus held its first official meeting on Nov. 6th, when, under the leadership of Dr. P. F. Osborne, nine members made a field trip to St. Jerome.

The new organization is the Adams Club, a geological society named in honour of Dr. P. D. Adams, a man with a world-wide reputation as a geologist, formerly on the faculty of McGill, and still active in geological work. Dr. Adams has kindly consented to act as patron of the new society.

The club was formed last week, and is at present composed of members of the Graduate School who are studying geology, though it is planned to include undergraduates in its membership.

It is to be affiliated with the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy. The programme will consist of bi-monthly meetings at which the members will present papers on geological subjects or at which guest speakers will deal with subjects not treated specifically in the ordinary course of studies.

The officers of the club are: Honorary President, Dr. J. J. O'Neill, Dean of Science and head of the department of geology; President, A. B. Byers; Secretary, Treasurer, B. A. Brown;

Star in Year's First
Production

Beginners Make Good Showing in Well Chosen Experimental Play
By L. N. P.

FEATURING the stars of last year's production, as well as many newcomers to the German stage, the three one-act plays put on by the Department of Germanics were put on for the first time last night in Moyses Hall. Playing before a capacity audience the playlets evoked laugh after laugh, as the action unfolded.

Beginning with a comedy by A. von Kotzebue, "Das Landhaus an der Heerstrasse," the more experienced players got a chance to show what they could do. The cast of this play included Dr. H. Walter, Jean Reid, and Lawrence MacGregor, in the principal roles. True to their record of last year, Dr. Walter and Jean Reid delivered sterling performances, particularly Miss Reid, whose enunciation and bearing charmed the audience. Lawrence MacGregor, though not as well known in German theatrical circles at college, put in a very creditable performance. Particularly good was his behaviour under the very trying circumstances in which he found himself when Dr. Walter's enormous whiskers decided to fall off, and that latter gentleman had to resort to all sorts of comical devices to prevent a tragedy.

Beginners Participate
The second play—"Die Frauenerbe" by Josef Stener, was a more or less experimental venture. The cast consisted of an almost complete line of beginners, either in dramatics altogether or else in German dramatics. However, despite the handicaps under which these novices had to labour, they came through with a very good performance. Most notable in this play was the performance of Frances MacDermot who, as the young and sceptical Lilli, blazes the ideals of the "Anti Men League" to Kingdom Come, and contrives to make the members admit that they are not as ardent a group of men-haters as they profess to be.

Chairman of Committee on Papers, H. J. Keating.

The locale of this first trip was one which was considered of interest not only geologically but also because early work in this region was done by Dr. Adams, Patron of the club.

NO DAILY MONDAY

There will be no issue of the Daily on Monday, being Armistice Day. Monday night reporters will check off their assignments at noon today.

Arts' Seniors To Hold Lunch Today

AT ONE O'CLOCK today, Arts '36 will hold their class luncheon.

During luncheon, guest speakers will be heard, and business matters discussed, which include a consideration of the class dance, banquet, picture, smoker, teams, and other items. Tickets are on sale at Bill Gentleman's office, at the price of forty cents. The luncheon will conclude early enough for students to make their 2 o'clock lectures and labs.

The Executive of Arts '36 consists this year of J. H. MacDonald, Pres.; Doug. Cooper, Vice-Pres.; Doug. MacKenzie, Sec'y; and Fred Piper, Treas.

S.C.M. Will Hold
Armistice Service

On Armistice Sunday, the Right Reverend Philip Carrington, D.D., Bishop of Quebec, will occupy the pulpit at the S.C.M. Peace Service in Divinity Hall Chapel. His theme will be related to the anniversary service as a whole, a theme planned to bring to students a peace message.

Dr. Carrington, a Cambridge graduate, is considered a challenging speaker, especially because he is in close contact with the problems and thought of youth. Interested in dramatics, he directed a series of Shakespearean Plays at Bishop's University, last season. A former Scout Commissioner, he is particularly interested in all that relates to the welfare of the younger generation.

Jean Hunter, Arts '36, President of the S.C.M., will also address the gathering with the intention of connecting it with the Student Peace Conference in which she occupies a position on the executive.

The service will be conducted by Harry Van Scoyoc, Arts '36, Chairman of the Devotional Committee. He will be assisted by Gifford Mitchell, the organist and a choir.

Redmen Ready To Oust Tricolor From Playoffs

Young Players Featured in Practices—MacArthur, Riddell, Mack Back in Line-up — Lou Ruschin Not Probable Starter — Win Tomorrow Will Put McGill in Second Place

TOMORROW afternoon the McGill senior football team will make a final attempt to recoup its disastrous losses of the past three weeks. The Redmen, on the wrong end of the count since they beat Western in the second game of the season, have been the butt end of adverse criticism for a week, and riled by the storm of protest that has come down upon their playing will be out to give the "no" to rumours that they have lost their fight, as they tackle Teddy Reeve's Tricolor in Kingston tomorrow.

Anyone who has seen the McGill men in action this past week will realize that there is new fire to their attack, and new method to their action. They have been put on the spot and they are determined to move off it. Defeat tomorrow, if they put up a good fight will be forgivable, but the team will have to play football before the local fans will cast them any bouquets. With this in mind, Coach Joe O'Brien has been drilling his men steadily all week, speeding up their plays, and smoothing out the rough spots.

Young players have been featured in the practices. Several of the regulars have been grooming sore knees

Molar Removers Ready For Clash Against Artsmen

By It.

"We'll take 'em like Notre Dame took Ohio State," declared quarter back Tomasi when questioned about the prospects of a Dreadnaught victory over the Artichokes of Arts in today's game. Barging through a welter of three pigskin-chasers lying and leaning at all angles, in their late, you newsgatherer was waited to the regal seat where quarterback Tomasi was crouching. "We was holding back against the others, see," he gulped. "We was holding out for the Arts game. It's a natural, I tell yuh. It's in de bag."

"What kind of football are you going to use?" we apologized.

"Why, we was thinking of usin' the Warner system to take 'em, but back-fielders Golden and Mahoney tell me it's illegal up here. We won't try to puzzle 'em too much. I guess we'll use (Continued on Page 4)

Strong McGill Harriers Strive For Championship

Hope to Regain Championship Lost Two Years Ago — Varsity Won Quite Handily Last Year — Team Leaves For Queen City This Afternoon.

VARSITY have just about won the football this year and last year they won the harrier meet, but today a small, but determined band of McGill cross country runners entrain for the Queen City, hopeful of bringing the harrier championship back to McGill. Coach Van Wagner has picked his squad on the basis of the showing made by the contestants during the trials held over the local mountain course. The team that has been picked has been training hard for the last three weeks and is all set for a successful invasion against Varsity.

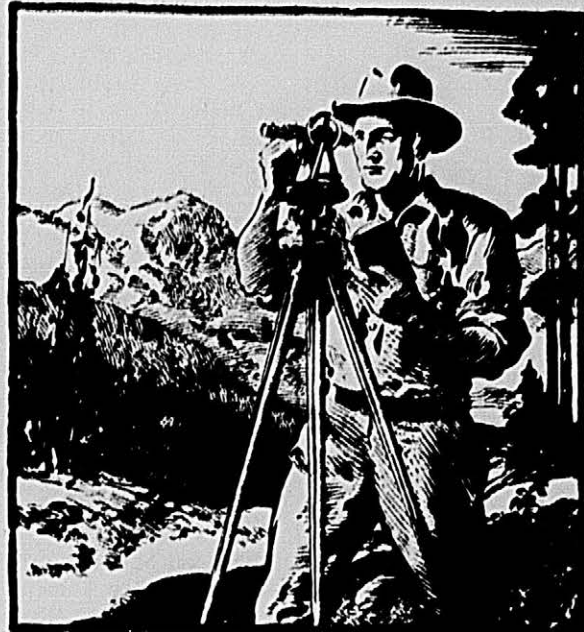

Terry Todd, winner of the three mile intercollegiate championship, will be one of the men carrying the strong McGill challenge. Pearson, who ran second in the trials held last week, is also a member of the squad. Charlie Frankton, three time winner of the Dunlop five mile road race and the holder of the course record, is back after a year's layoff, and will press Kibblewaite of Varsity with Todd for individual honors.

The individual champion, Billy Hogg of Varsity, will be running again this year and should be well towards the front of the pack. This year should see the greatest aggregation of stars that an intercollegiate meet has ever seen, and the record for the event is liable to be broken by more than one man. Since the college first having four men to place, takes the title, a close race for the championship is indicated, as all colleges will have closely balanced teams. However, the title should prove a three way race between McGill, Varsity, and Queens.

In the Varsity interfaculty harrier race held last year, Kibblewaite was well under the college record, while McGill's interfaculty race was run in three minutes over the course record. However, during the last week, the Redmen have improved vastly and should profit by the last week's training.

To date, McGill has won five championships, while Varsity has won fifteen, with intermittent wins by other colleges. The team, in its respective order, is Todd, Pearson, Frankton, Schechter, and Tait, — the latter a well known McGill's skier, who should prove an asset to the team that will be McGill's mainstay for the Dunlop championship.

PROMENADE PATTEN

NOW that the football season is more or less on the wane as far as McGill is concerned, we feel that we ought to begin to acquaint our readers with a little of the hockey news that concerns McGill. It is high time indeed because McGill's entry in the local Senior Group has already been in action once.

IT was disappointing to many of the McGill supporters when Hollie McHugh announced that he would not be able to resume his job as janitor of the Bell Brigade nets which he has held for the last two years. Pressure of outside duties and studies prevent him from coaching in the Group games but he hopes to be able to play in the intercollegiate games. Although Hollie will be missed this year, Dave Tennant, last year's junior goalie, has already demonstrated that he is a competent net custodian.

FROM up Toronto way comes the announcement that the Varsity hockey squad will be coached by Irvin 'Ace' Bailey this year. It will be remembered that 'Ace' was a former star with the Toronto Maple Leafs of the National League.

Two years ago Bailey received a serious head injury while playing in Boston. Since then he has been unable to be connected with

TOUCH RUGBY

A different set of rules for touch rugby appeared in the "Daily" several days ago. As these rules are not satisfactory to the various faculty representatives, the following code was drawn up and adopted:

- 10 men on each side, with unlimited substitution.
- Two 20 minute periods; 5 minute intermission.
- Ball is put in play by kicking off; receiving side must catch the ball to run it back. Ball can be advanced by passing, lateral and forward, until the ball is grounded or the player with the ball is touched.
- Touching with one hand only is necessary.
- If a ball is grounded on a kick it is dead at the place grounded. If grounded on a pass is dead at place whence it was last passed, as in an incomplete forward pass.
- Intercepted forward can be run back.
- When ball is grounded or ball-carrier is touched, the offensive team must kick on next play.
- Kicking is done in rotating order of players.
- Offensive side must remain behind the line of kicking until the ball is caught by the opposite side or is grounded.
- When ball is kicked it goes to the opposite team at point of grounding. The receiving team, after such grounding, must kick on the next play.
- Team cannot retrieve its own kick, except on a fumble.
- Scoring: 5 points for a touchdown; 3 points for dropkick or placement; 1 point for rouge. Rouge is made whenever the opposing team kicks the ball across the line and it is either grounded or the ball-carrier is touched behind the line.
- The first game will take place next Tuesday at 3 p.m. between the faculties of Commerce and Law.

augmented by several other amateurs of known calibre.

JACK MCGILL, one of the most outstanding graduates of the Bell Brigade, is again toiling in the ranks of the professional Canadians. From all indications Jack will not be joined by his fellow graduate of the Bell Brigade, Neil Crutchfield. Although Neil is making a satisfactory recovery from the head injuries he received in a motor accident several weeks ago, the "no visitors sign" is still on the door of his room. He has now been transferred from the Neurological Institute to the Ross.

BACK to the Senior Group now. Victorians who have been prominent in amateur hockey in Montreal for just about as long as any of the old timers can remember are very much to the fore this year. And this is partly due to the former Red Raiders who are now being measured for Vic's sweaters. Take a glance at their startling lineup. Farmer, and Farquharson are on the forward line while Frank Shaughnessy jr. is on the defense.
